

Clever Polly

By Nega Shirzai 4 Hazel

In a faraway distant land there lived a happy, clever and beautiful girl called Polly. She lived in a little cottage with her extremely old and ill grandmother.

Unfortunately, they were very poor. One day Polly's grandmother whispered softly in her ear, "You must go to work in the massive, majestic castle so we can get some money." The next day, Polly went to work in the heavy wet rain and cold freezing snow. She worked hard all day and at the end of the day she was paid with ten shining golden pounds. Polly put the money in her pocket and walked quickly home. When she arrived, her grandmother cried, "You clever girl!"
