

The Three Little Tigers

A long time ago there were three little tigers, a little tiger, a medium tiger and a giant tiger. They lived in the jungle in the shadow of a mountain. Everyday they ate people from morning til night, until they eat all the people. Then they looked for new people.

Off they strolled to the deep fast flowing river, to find new people, but there was a problem... the bridge that joined the jungle to new jungle had a grizzly dragon living under it! The dragon had horrible claws, terrible teeth and gobbled up anyone trying to cross his bridge. The tigers decided to look for the dragon under the bridge, but it was too dark and gloomy to see.

After a while the little tiger said, "I'm going to cross the bridge to eat the sweet green people!" roar, roar, roar, roar, roar went the tiger as he crossed the bridge. The grizzly dragon sharpened his claws, gnashed his teeth and... popped up with a monstrous growl! "who's that roaring over my bridge?" it's only me," bleated the little tiger," please let me past to eat the sweet green people!"

"No! No ! No !" groaned the grizzly dragon, "you've woken me up and now I'm coming to gobble you up in one gulp!"

"No! No don't eat me, my brother is on his way and he is much tastier than I."

"Very well," said the grizzly dragon impatiently, "be off with you!" so the little tiger crossed the bridge to eat the sweet green people and he was happy.

Later the medium tiger said, "I'm going to cross the bridge to eat the sweet green people!" roar, roar, roar, roar, roar went the tiger as he crossed the bridge. The grizzly dragon sharpened his claws, gnashed his teeth and... popped up with a monstrous growl! "who's that roaring over my bridge?" it's only me," bleated the medium tiger," please let me past to eat the sweet green people!"

"No! No! No!," groaned the grizzly dragon, "you've woken me up and now I'm coming to gobble you up in one gulp!"

"No! No don't eat me, my brother is on his way and he is much tastier than I."

"Very well," said the grizzly dragon impatiently, "be off with you!" so the medium tiger crossed the bridge to eat the sweet green people and he was happy.

Finally the giant tiger said, "I'm going to cross the bridge to eat the sweet green people!" roar, roar, roar, roar, roar went the tiger as he crossed the bridge. The grizzly dragon sharpened his claws, gnashed his teeth and... popped up with a monstrous growl! "who's that roaring over my bridge?" it's only me," bleated the giant tiger," please let me past to eat the sweet green people!"

"No! No! No!" groaned the grizzly dragon, "you've woken me up and now I'm coming to gobble you up in one gulp!"

With a voice like thunder the giant tiger said, "Oh no you're not!" and he tossed the dragon into the air, so high that he circled the moon. Then down, down into the river. SPLASH!

Fortunately the grizzly dragon was never seen again and the three tigers lived happier ever after.

By Kuba 2 Guava

